

KRAFCENKO RE-CAPTURED DAY RESISTANCE

Winnipeg Officers Walk in on Desperado Hiding in Small Apartment—Alleged Slayer Tells Story of His Escape—Hagel Refused Bail in the Sum of $20,000

Winnipeg, Jan. 19.—John Krafcenko, alleged murderer and proven bank robber, was arrested at 11:00 o'clock Sunday night in a party-strengthened leg he made no effort at resistance and uttered no protest. John Westlake, living with him in the small suite in which he was taken was also arrested on a charge of "aiding, abetting and comforting."

The city police alone effected the capture. Krafcenko's sensational escape from the city jail on January 10, followed by the unusual heavy reward of $10,000 for his recapture, had set the public by the ears and every member of the police was watched by hundreds of eyes. When the police automobiles turned, gathered before the Security Storage warehouse late Sunday night, a crowd of 1,000 people gathered instantly.

Great excitement prevailed, and the Lubbock Chief Magistrate, with Deputy Chief Norton and four picked detectives, followed a promenade led by the single reporter who had loaned the car, they made for the Burris block, on Toronto street in the west end of the city. The police entered the block and made for a small, dimly lighted apartment. Here Krafcenko was seated on a chair, quietly smoking a cigar. He made no resistance, and said: "Well, Jack, we've got you. I said Krafcenko, 'and if you'll let me go, I'll let you go.'"

"All right," said Krafcenko, rising with dignity, he stood his arms on the chair's shoulders for support and quickly descended to the waiting car, to be whisked off to the provincial jail, while the excited crowd still were surging round the storage building.

The details of affairs leading up to the arrest are not yet available, but it is known that Krafcenko had only been in the Burris apartment for three days. His companion there was John Westlake, an employee of the Security Storage company, who was then taken by the police and placed under arrest.

Krafcenko was taken to the provincial jail, he being wanted for a crime committed outside the city, and therefore a provincial prisoner. How Krafcenko made his break for liberty was told by the gossamer, himself to the chief of police after his arrest Sunday night, but by no manner of persuasion could he be got to implicate any confederate, or say where he got his gun, rope and key.

After gaining the photographer room, he threw up the ash, hid his rope and climbed through the window. He was only a third of the way down when the rope broke, and he fell to the ground, badly hurting his leg. As he landed, he felt his feet and limped along the lane behind the station until he gained Main street, where he could see the police signal lights already flickering. He came to William avenue, where he got a bad scare, a fire touring car pulling up behind him and offering him a "lift." It was not a police car, however, the driver being a stranger, who seeing the man limping painfully along had offered him a ride out of charity. The car took him along William avenue for some distance, and set him down not far from Toronto street, where he made his way to the Burris block, where he remained in hiding all the time, save for some days when he found refuge in the Security Storage warehouse. As he has been in the Burris block or the storage warehouse, he would say nothing.

Sunday night's arrest was the minimum event of a week-end of surprises. The royal commission's rigid investigation of the escape was clinched by the apprehension, after he had left the city, of Constable Reid, one of Krafcenko's guards, on suspicion of complicity.

The grasp of surprise with which the public received the news was barely over when news leaked out that Percy Hagel, Krafcenko's counsel, had also been placed under restraint.

It later became known that John H. Hagel, of Fort William, and an ex-convict, in 1909-11, of the Winnipeg Builders' exchange, a friend of Hagel's had been arrested prior to the lawyer's apprehension. Hagel's case was done by his friend's predicament and arriving at the police station, had immediately been taken into custody.

The warrants against Hagel, Hagel and Hagel are for complicity in Krafcenko's escape, but Hagel's position is the more serious, he being a member of the police force.

The royal commission, whose investigation into the escape of Krafcenko led ultimately to his re-capture, renewed this afternoon, and heard from John Buxton, a confession of his complicity in the affair, and of the planning of the escape.

Buxton's confession was complete in every detail, and by it are implicated, Constable Reid, one of Krafcenko's guards, and Percy Hagel, his counsel, both of whom are now under arrest. The origin of the plan of escape was Krafcenko himself, and his chief accomplice, Constable Reid, one of his guards. Constable Flower, the other guard in charge of his supervision.

According to Buxton, he had known Hagel three years, but did not meet him until he was pointed out to him in a hotel bar as one of Krafcenko's guards. He had been introduced to Reid and they had chatted about the Krafcenko case. Reid remarking it was a case in which a young lawyer could make a name for himself, and Buxton had suggested Hagel. He had taken Reid to Hagel's office and introduced them. They went around together that night, and he left Reid and Hagel about 9:30. A few days after Hagel was engaged as Krafcenko's counsel.

There were several meetings between Reid and Hagel, and one day Hagel had said to Buxton: "I've got to get a 'gat.' Can you get me one? A 'gat' was a slang term for getting gun, or automatic revolver."

He had asked Hagel what he wanted it for, to which the lawyer replied: "Never mind what the hell I want it for—I've got to get a 'gat.' Can you get me one? A 'gat' was a slang term for getting gun, or automatic revolver."

Buxton had thereupon redeemed his own Colt's revolver and another which he had pawned some time ago, and had taken them to Hagel. The automatic was placed in a drawer, from which Reid took it, after Buxton had refused Hagel's request that he (Buxton) hand it to Reid. Buxton had by this time become very uneasy about his part in the affair, and tried to get his gun back, being afraid the police would trace it back to him, as indeed they did, as later events showed. He bribed a boy to steal another from a hardware store, and this he took to Reid. The policeman told him to file off the number which he had done.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Annual Business Meeting in
Held at Close of the Lecture

Rev. H. Davidson, of Ogden Mission, Calgary, gave a very instructive lecture on Monday evening at the Presbyterian church on "Applied Christianity." The object was to show the problems that are facing the church owing to the rapid emigration from all parts of Europe. By means of lantern pictures the types of the various new comers were shown on the screen. The pictures also showed the various types of homes they are making in this country. The gist of the story is that while these new comers bring habits of industry, too many of them also bring habits that do not tend to the welfare of our fair Dominion. They are over-crowded in their homes, they follow the same habits of living here. They do not know the benefits of individual homes. It is the duty of the church to teach these people that with better wages it is their duty to better their manner of living. These new comers who were accustomed to farm life in the old lands make the type of emigrants. They take their new point of view. They take their new point of view. They take their new point of view.

ROUNDED UP ANOTHER GENERAL AT BORDER

Joe Yuen Salazar, the Seventh of the Federal, London to Come Into U. S. Custody

Presidio, Texas—Rumor of the border authorities, to round up the Mexican federal general who escaped from Ojinaga, Mex., when the rebels occupied that place, resulted in the arrest at San Antonio, Texas, of General Joe Yuen Salazar.

He was taken from a train while on route to the federal prison in Mexico opposite Eagle Pass border.

Salazar is the seventh Mexican general to come into the custody of the United States authorities.

Salazar, who achieved distinction through his raids on the Mexican colonies in Northern Mexico, is wanted at Santa Fe, New Mexico, where he was involved in the federal courts on charges of conspiracy to smuggle arms and ammunition into Mexico. He was arrested in El Paso on that indictment, but he refused his bonds. Ojinaga is a small town, but it was a very important place.

Salazar was taken to the federal prison in Mexico, where he was held for some time. He was then released, but he was not allowed to leave the country.

STANLEY DAY MEETS WITH TRAGIC DEATH

Overturned Wagon Found Lying on Body in Big C.P.R. Irrigation Ditch One Mile From Bassano—Particulars of Accident Will Never Be Known—Funeral Wednesday From English Church

Stanley Day, well known in this section, having lived here for the past ten years, met his death in the C.P.R. irrigation ditch one mile northeast of Bassano, when he drove his team into the ditch late Thursday afternoon.

Day, in company with Ralph Baker, started out in a farm wagon for their home near Dorothy, about one o'clock in the afternoon. That is the time they left Bassano, according to the best information to be had. The first news of the accident was received when Baker had his appearance at the ranch home of H. W. Patton, who lives in a short distance from where the accident occurred. This was about six o'clock in the evening. Baker was unable to give very much information as to what happened from the time they left the Hunter hotel until he appeared at the Patton ranch. He told of Day's being killed, but couldn't even take them to the scene of the accident. He telephoned to W. S. Playfair and told what had occurred. Mr. Harris, coroner, was notified and went to the scene of the accident and had the body removed to Gray's undertaking parlors, where it was prepared for burial.

An inquest was held Friday night at the city hall for the purpose of inquiring into Day's death. The jury was composed of the following: I. W. Shoop, J. S. Brooks, Charles Murdoch, Charles Harris, H. Sharp and H. S. Johnson.

The jury returned the following verdict: "That Stanley Day came to his death sometime between the hour of one and two o'clock on Thursday, January 21, 1914, by the accidental overturning of a wagon which fell upon him, causing him to suffer from suffocation."

Several witnesses were summoned to give testimony at the inquest but no evidence was adduced to throw any light on the matter. All that could be learned was that the two men left the hotel at about the hour mentioned above, and that they were both apparently sober. One witness, however, stated that when Baker appeared at the Patton ranch he appeared to be drinking, and at the inquest Baker was in no condition to give testimony, being then under the influence of liquor. He could give no intelligent account of what transpired from the time they left town until about six o'clock in the evening, and he was then in an intoxicated condition.

As Baker was the only eye witness to the accident it is not likely that anything more definite will ever be known as to just how the accident occurred.

Day came to Canada from England ten years ago. He at one time was quite comfortably fixed financially and owned a ranch near Bassano. At the time of his death he was living on a homestead near Dorothy. He was about 35 years of age and lived alone on his homestead.

The funeral occurred today from the Church of England at 2 o'clock. Burial at the city cemetery.

Very little is known of Day's family connections, but it is said that his parents are dead.

PREMIER BORDEN GIVE VALUABLE INFORMATION

There are a good many things to which Premier Borden might refer in the speech from the Throne when parliament meets. He might inform the house why for nearly a year he has neglected the fulfilment of his repeated promises to promptly appear to the country if parliament refused him such aid as he might demand to tide the empire over his imaginary crisis. He might tell Parliament why for months he has neglected the demands from Grain Growers, from consumers and from such prominent grain dealers as Mr. James Carver of Montreal for wheat and flour to give Canadian wheat free access to the American market. He might give the country an explanation of the conspiracy exposed last June by Mr. Henri Bourassa when he unfolded the secret arranged by which the Imperialist Tories behind Mr. Borden financed the campaign of the Nationalists of Quebec behind Mr. Borden, in order to defeat the Laurier government by any fair or foul means.

Mr. Borden might explain why he has countenanced electoral corruption when ever it would help his own party and favored such abuse of the election courts as that by which Mr. Morrison represented Macdonald for a whole session, when everyone knew his seat had been stolen. Mr. Borden might give passing reference to the Prince Albert land deal, the Royal Military site scandal, the Gimli Park steel, and the other disgraceful deals which have been stirred during the year. This would naturally lead the way to an explanation why after promising that if he became leader of the government he would not let a day pass before he took measures to give the Western provinces control of their natural resources. Mr. Borden has allowed over two years to pass and has done nothing. He might reply to the demands made on December 22nd last by the Premier of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba that he implement his promises in this regard. A passing comment might then be paid to Mr. James Morris who was elected in Chateaugay by outrageous corruption and is only able to take his seat because the Government lawyers invoked sufficient technicalities to delay his election trial until after the session.

Mr. Borden might then make reference to the disastrous Winnipeg coal strike, which has been going on for over a year, with the militia called out for months, while the Minister of Labor has done nothing except make matters worse and justify the title he gave himself as "Minister of Play." A natural reference might be made to the many Minister's pleas that Canada should have a year of two hard times as a cure for the high cost of living, with an explanation of why the government, after refusing to even consider a commission to inquire into the high cost of living, suddenly appointed a departmental commission with such restricted powers that it could hardly make any report that would serve as government ammunition. Should Mr. Borden then insert a statement of the number of liberal civil servants dismissed since October, 1911, with a number of disappointed Postmaster it would prove interesting together with an estimate of the cost of the innumerable commissions whose reports Hon. Mr. Foster recently declared were generally, "shelved and forgotten."

Premier Borden might give much valuable information to the public on these subjects. It is not likely he will refer to any of them. In his speech from the throne last year the merest reference made to the work of the session, and it is probable the same course will be pursued this year, the government, as usual swinging liberal action before shaping its course. In the meantime the inspired conservative organs announce that up to date the government has not decided whether it will cling to the emergency

THE WAY TO PREVENT COLD WEATHER DISEASES

There would be less loss of sickness during cold weather if folks would only take ordinary common sense precautions against it. When you hear there is small-pox around, you don't lose much time in getting your family vaccinated. But lots of you do not use the same common sense in preventing colds, the grippe, bronchitis, pneumonia, typhoid fever, rheumatism and other dangerous ills of them very serious and dangerous, and some of which nearly every member of your family is almost certain to suffer from before winter is over unless some medicine is taken to build up the body and put it in perfect order before cold weather sets in.

Vaccination prevents the growth of germs of small-pox in the blood, and puts the system into a proper healthy condition to resist small-pox. Small-pox is a disease which is almost certain to be prevented as well as relieved. It strengthens the body to overcome the germs and helps to put your system into the right condition to resist disease. It contains the four Hypo-sensitizers recommended by physicians to tone the nerves and blood, in combination with purest Olive Oil, to nourish and strengthen the system.

You who are weak and run down, and you who are apparently well, and you who are liable to suffer from various cold weather ailments, use Reall's Olive Oil Emulsion to get and keep well and strong. For the tired-out, run-down, nervous, dissipated or debilitated—the overactive, overgrown, children—good people—it is a suitable aid to renewed strength, better spirits, glowing health.

Reall's Olive Oil Emulsion—King of the celebrated Reall's Remedies—is for freedom from sickness of you and your family. Pleasant-tasting, containing no alcohol or dangerous drugs, you'll be as enthusiastic about it as we are who, you say, it's strengthening, invigorating, building up, disease preventing, efficient. If it does not help you, your money will be given back to you without argument. Sold in this community only at our store, The Bassano Store—most of the most than 7,000 leading drug stores in the United States, Canada and Great Britain—J. H. Stiller Drug Store.

Forestry Facts

Mr. R. H. Campbell, Director of Forestry, who recently returned from a tour of inspection of the Dominion Forest Reserves in the West, says: "Unquestionably the work there is in better shape this year than ever before. Not only have fire-fighting facilities, such as trails, look-out stations, telephone lines, fire-trucks and fire-guards, been very much improved, but the construction of good roads has made the pleasure-resorts in the reserves more accessible to the public."

The larch, or "samarack," of eastern Canada will soon be commercially extinct. Already, according to Dr. Gordon Hewitt, the Dominion Entomologist, its enemy, the large larch saw-fly, has destroyed between fifty and one hundred per cent of the eastern larch. This insect pest was introduced into the United States
